

News Release

Joint Force Headquarters – National Capital Region

Guardians of the Nation's Capital

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE 18-36

DATE: June 21, 2018

Military training flights in the nation's capital to enhance military response capability

FORT LESLEY J. McNAIR, D.C. – The Joint Force Headquarters - National Capital Region, in coordination with the Federal Aviation Administration and multiple interagency partners, will conduct a military training exercise, Friday, June 22 in the Washington, D.C. area.

As part of this military training exercise, the U.S. Army and U.S. Air Force will conduct multiple flights with UH-60L “Black Hawk” and UH-1 “Huey” aircrafts operating between 200 - 1,000 feet above ground level throughout the day.

The exercise is intended to continue the collaboration efforts between DOD and interagency partners, promote emergency preparedness and will refine and improve the military's ability to respond to natural and manmade disasters.

For more information on this training exercise, contact Ms. Shaunteh D. Kelly at the U.S. Army Military District of Washington Public Affairs office 202-685-4645.

-30-

Editor's Notes:

- Joint Force Headquarters National Capital Region, based at Fort Lesley J. McNair, Washington, D.C. plans, partners, maintains situational awareness, and as directed, employs forces as a Joint Task Force conducting homeland defense and civil support operations to defend and secure the National Capital Region.
- The military training flights have been carefully planned and will be closely controlled.
- No ordinance of any kind will be employed during this exercise.
- Military training flights are subjected to being cancelled due to inclement weather.